Likewise Simon,

Following the meeting last week we've spoken within YH about the potential to get some 4G tablets out in Amy Woodgate (Dementia Care) and Wesley Lodge (Learning Disability) so will test this to make sure there's a good enough signal to access ReMe. This should happen in the few weeks so should be able to confirm next steps in early July a few weeks before the apps are released,

There is clearly significant interest in the product from teams across YH and the alignment between the usage at Kingston Hospital and wider Kingston community is likely to prove beneficial for the area as a whole. As mentioned YH have also been one of the pilot sites for the eRedbook and as part of our NHS England South West London Child Health Information System contract are also piloting an Asthma App, both of which are part of the Digital Health London Accelerator programme and are factored into our service improvements.

As discussed in the session YH also run the IT services for all of the Kingston GP Practices, they are 100% EMIS practices so the pending integration with ReMe and EMIS should also be of use too, specifically with the Practices that support Amy Woodgate. This should be possible soon after.

Once we've confirmed the network access it would also be useful to have another demo at some point for the support services and wider care teams, then we can work out what needs to happen to get it live. Look forward to catching up in a few weeks.

Kind regards

Ed
